Conflict Minerals Policy

Background

In 2012, the United States Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") issued its final rules regarding "Conflict Minerals" (Tantalum, Tin, Tungsten and Gold) as defined in and required by section 1502 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. As a result, many companies are now focusing on whether and to what extent their products contain Conflict Minerals and if such Conflict Minerals come from the Democratic Republic of Congo and the adjoining countries named in the Act.

Expando AB's commitments

Expando will be a part of this ambition and is committed to engage with our customers and help them fulfil their reporting obligations to the SEC. We are working towards ensuring that our products do not contain Conflict Minerals that have been sourced from mines that support or fund conflict within the Democratic Republic of Congo or adjoining countries.

Therefore we are committed to:

- Identify which products are impacted and target our efforts accordingly.
- Not buy products and materials containing Conflict Minerals directly from Conflict Mines.
- Ask our suppliers to work towards ensuring that any Conflict Minerals contained in the products and materials supplied to Expando do not originate from Conflict Mines.
